

SPLENDID PROGRESS OF THE ALBERTA REFLECTED IN GOVERNMENT PAID TO HEAD OF GOVERNMENT BY U.F.A. AT SECEK

With possibly larger crowds than two weeks ago the end of the present week finds government candidates in the field in the majority of the provincial constituencies. During the past few days the province an active campaign is away to a flying start in preparation for the final thrust on July 10.

These progress has shown that great enthusiasm prevails all over the province among the supporters of government. While it is supposed to be time-honored political strategy to paint a party's prospects in brilliant colors, the fact is outstanding in this campaign that on all sides nothing but commendation is heard of the sound and progressive administration which heads the present government. It is not surprising to find that the province is so well prepared to meet the challenge of the opposition.

It was a gross interference with the separate and distinct lives of the members of every other class. The farmers' zone are not all farmers, the professional, the trades the industries are represented by farmers' zone and therefore we and whoever affects the farmers affects all of those others. The farmers cannot live without those others and those others cannot live without the farmers and any attempt to legislate for one class or for a group of classes is destined to failure from the start. Not only Canada as a whole but all the different nations made up of different classes and all of those classes are dependent upon each other, each is necessary for the others. Therefore we as the Government and our legislatures must be representative of the whole.

the census-takers would seem to indicate that those who were responsible for framing the questions had decided that there was no such thing as a Canadian nationality. Though a man's ancestors for six or seven generations have lived in Canada and helped to make this country what it is today, he cannot describe himself as a Canadian. Mee, who recently made the name of Canada known and honored in Europe and throughout the world, cannot say that his Government is proud of him by assuming that their citizens, though their forefathers originally came to Canada one hundred or two hundred years ago.

Record of Stewart Government is one of Inspiring Achievement

Even A. F. Ewing, Leader of one faction of the Opposition has no serious criticism to make of Administration's Record

THE manifesto recently issued by Mr. Ewing, the main burden of his criticism is "the staggering debt of the province." The manifesto is full of glaring inaccuracies. It places the indebtedness, for instance, at sixty-three million dollars. That is not true, and in making that statement Mr. Ewing not only attempts to destroy the financial standing of the province, but also impugns the character of all the Canadian and U.S. Bond Houses who have purchased Alberta Bonds. It is a well-known fact that no bond house will purchase provincial bonds without first investigating the financial condition of the province, and experts are always called in for that purpose. Their official finding is incorporated in the prospectus issued when the bonds are placed on the account. Such a prospectus, issued on December 31, 1920, placed the debt of Alberta at $149,989,000, less a sinking fund account of $1,291,159, and telephone utility indebtedness amounting to $15,834,394.90, making a net debt of $24,924,345.90.

Mr. Ewing does not know, although he ought to know, that no municipality in the Dominion does include, or it expected to include, utility bonds in any statement of its net debt. Mr. Ewing also includes university bonds and other guaranteed bonds in his statement of the general debt, whereas they are but an indirect obligation, and are fully covered by assets and mortgages, altogether separate and distinct from the assets belonging to the province.

Mr. Ewing speaks of the indebtedness of the province as if it were money thrown away, never to return, with not a cent to show for it. He reminds one of an amateur accountant puzzling his brains to discover the story that the books really tell, and finally making a haphazard guess at it. If he cared to do so, he could find out that represented in the indebtedness of the province are directly reproductive undertakings, such as the telephone system which is a wonderful asset, and could be readily disposed of for twice what it cost the province.

And then, included in the indebtedness are revenue-producing investments amounting to about seven million dollars. The province is drawing interest on these investments, and the principal is secured. Nearly eighteen million dollars are represented in indirectly productive works, all of which can be properly included as assets of the province.

VALUABLE ASSETS OF PROVINCE

Mr. Ewing referred in his manifesto to the public debt. He did not refer to a single asset. He did not say that the assets of the province are of the most valuable kind and that the province has something to show for every dollar expended. Mr. Ewing knows very well that the province of Alberta cannot be developed without the borrowing and expenditure of money. He also knows that all the money thus far borrowed has been expended wisely and with a due regard to the public interest, and that the government policy in this respect has resulted in a development that is little short of amazing.

Mr. Ewing is just as glaringly inaccurate when he speaks of the Supplementary Revenue Tax as being "first introduced under the name of the Patriotic Tax Act." That also is not true. The Patriotic Tax Act was introduced solely for the benefit of the Canadian Patriotic fund, and not one cent of it was diverted to the general revenue of the province. The Supplementary Tax Act of 1918 was an independent measure entirely, and contained no reference to "patriotic requirements." It constituted the first general tax on the people of the province as a whole, and is the only direct tax in existence. It is a very light charge on land values.

Mr. Ewing's "manifesto" is really a compliment to the government. He makes no reference to, and has no criticism to make of the great volume of legislation placed on the statute books by the Liberal administrations of Alberta since 1905, culminating in the splendid measure for which the Stewart government has been responsible.

There is not a word in Mr. Ewing's manifesto about the outstanding Educational Policy of the government, by which Alberta has set the pace for advanced educational systems elsewhere. Not a word about the policy of equal opportunity for all school children throughout the province. Not a word about the fact that Alberta's 4,300 schools are now operating at an average of 98 per cent. strong, with only 150 permit teachers in the whole of the province. Not a word about the government's policy of raising the standard of teacher training, or of the practice to lend particularly to rural teachers, government funds up to $400 in each case, repayable over a period of two years after graduation, thus leading to more competent teachers and a largely increased teacher supply. Not a word about the fact that the government has increased the salaries of school teachers, and more contented rural teachers, by paying one-third of the cost of building and furnishing teachers' residences. Not a word about the policy of allowing children in the rural schools to write their high school entrance examinations at their own schools, instead of compelling them to go to the towns and cities for the purpose, a great expense to the government. Not a word about the government's policy of education in the rural districts. Not a word about the government's solution of the problem of over-crowded rural schools, and the present practice of voting three times the usual grant to two-room schools. Not a word, in short, about the government's policy of equal educational opportunity for all school children in the province, and the distribution of its resources as possible.

There is not a word in Mr. Ewing's manifesto about the government's slogan of school facilities for every child and every child at school!

MR. EWING'S CURIOUS SILENCE

Take the government's legislation for women and children. Not a word from Mr. Ewing on the subject! Surely if he had any criticism to make he would have said so in his manifesto! Mrs. H. M. Edwards, of Macleod, president of the Provincial Council of Women in the preface of her book on "The Legal Status of the Women of Alberta," says:

"The women of Alberta are more favored in regard to legal status than are those of any other province of Canada. The government's appreciation of the work of the women in standing shoulder to shoulder with their men folk in the development of their country has been shown by giving them the premier place in the Dominion. Alberta was the first province to call women to a legislative assembly, the first to ask a woman to accept a judgeship seat in the courts of justice, and the first to hand her judgeship honors. Alberta was the first province to give women the provincial government franchise, the first to make distinction; the first to grant absolute equal parental rights, not only as co-guardian, but giving the mother in 1920 every right in her child that had been exclusively held by the father, even to share with the father his rights in the intestate estate of the son or daughter.

There are a number of laws affecting women, such as the Dowry Act of 1917, by which the property is reserved to the wife not only during the lifetime of the husband, but after his death and during her lifetime. Then there is the Exemption from Seizures Ordinance of 1916, which protects the family homestead from seizure under execution, and gives adequate protection to the home. A wife is also now entitled by a new law to all the property and income of her husband, and the title formerly shared with the husband. A form of widow's pension is provided by the Mothers' Allowance Act, whereby the government pays to every mother requiring assistance a sum sufficient to enable her to raise and educate her family, half the cost being borne by the government, and the other half by the municipality in which she resides. The husband's estate is protected by provisions of a will to her husband's estate, notwithstanding provisions of a will to the contrary, the question of her rights being left for a Supreme Court Judge to decide.

Mr. Ewing in his manifesto says not a word about all this beneficent legislation on behalf of women and children. He apparently has no criticism to make, and is not willing to give credit where credit is due.

GOVERNMENT'S SPLENDID RECORD

In the same way Mr. Ewing is silent about the splendid policy of the government on behalf of agriculture and kindred interests. He has not a word to say about the way the government during the crop failures in certain districts during the years 1898, 1919, 1920, came to the assistance of the farmers to the tune of $1,200,000. Not a word about the Co-operative Farm Loan Society, which enables farmers may organize themselves into a mutual credit society and secure short term loans from banks at the lowest possible rate of interest, the government standing behind these societies with a full guarantee of the borrowing. Not a word about the six splendid agricultural schools of the province, known from one end of the Dominion to the other, or of the College of Agriculture at Edmonton, or of the Government Agricultural Experiment Station, or of the Government Agricultural College for the graduates of these schools. Not a word about the famous "Cow Bill," by which settlers in newer districts are able to secure cattle under government loans. Not a word about the Farm Machinery Act, by which farmers are protected from unscrupulous machinery and other contractors. Not a word about the Hon. Duncan Marshall's splendid fight for the redemption of the farmers from the large and onerous mortgage mentioned above for the encouragement and protection of Alberta's basic industries.

Mr. Ewing is also curiously silent about the government's policy of providing means for getting in and out of the rural districts: of its appropriation this year of two and one-quarter million dollars for roads, bridges, and ferries, making a total appropriation in five years for that purpose of six and one-half million dollars. Not a word from Mr. Ewing about the government's magnificent irrigation policy, although people of all shades of political thought throughout the province have praised the government for its action in this respect.

Not a word from Mr. Ewing about the government's policy of obtaining wider markets for Alberta coal, a policy that has resulted in increasing the annual output of coal in the last two years from 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 tons. Not a word about the government's beneficent labor legislation, or of the plan to create a department of labor at the next session, with a deputy minister in charge.

The electors of the province can form only one conclusion from Mr. Ewing's studied silence on all these subjects, and that is that he has no criticism to make of the general record of the government. That being the case there is only one thing to do—

Assessment of City Utilities Amounts to Three Million And Represents $129,000 in Taxation

Permission to Tax Utilities Was Given to City at Last Session of Legislature—Assessor Has Prepared Statement Showing Assessment in Taxation Will Have to Be Paid Out of Utility Profits.

Assessment of the city utilities is a matter likely to excite a considerable amount of attention from the public in the near future.

At the last session of the provincial legislature, permission was given to the city to tax the utilities in the same manner as if they were operated by private corporations.

Acting along these lines, and after the assessment of the city utilities, the assessor has prepared a statement in which he has estimated the five utilities.

The total amounts to three million dollars and on the basis of a 40 mill rate, the Commission of the City of Edmonton has estimated that the city will have to contribute $129,000 to the city in taxation.

So far no notice has been made by council in the matter, but the question is important. It will have to be paid out of the surplus and not out of the utilities. Those persons who own no property, but use the utilities will be contributing to the city taxation in this form.

If the taxation is imposed, and the rates do not have sufficient surplus to pay, then the rates will have to go up," was the query addressed to Commissioner Yorath.

The utilities will have sufficient surplus in 1921, was the reply.

Therefore, the public may be assured that the rates are not going up just at present, whatever may happen in the future.

The assessor prepared by Alexander Walker is as follows:

Telephone line, $16,000.

Improvements, $91,510 at 40 per cent, $36,604.

Electric light, land, nil.

Improvements, $1,741,182 at 40 per cent, $696,473.

Power plant, land, $11,480.

Improvements, $127,142 at 40 per cent, $50,857.

Total assessment, $2,007,202.

Street railway, land, $20,250.

Improvements, $1,207,142 at 40 per cent, $482,857.

Total assessment, $3,149,900.

WILL REPORT ON DEVELOPMENT OF MUSKEG AREAS

Experts from Dominion Department of Agriculture Will Visit Sawridge District

Through the continued efforts of Hon. J. L. Cole, provincial secretary, who has been instrumental in bringing the agricultural development of the northern part of the province before the federal ministry of agriculture, officials from this department will visit the Sawridge district early in this summer with a view to reporting the situation direct to Ottawa.

This arrangement has been communicated to Mr. Cole by Hon. J. P. Poirer, minister of agriculture at Ottawa. In his letter to Mr. Cole, the federal minister stated that he has now had an opportunity of going into the matter fully, and he agreed with Mr. Cole that experimental work should be carried out with a view to finding the agricultural possibilities of the muskeg of the north. With this in view a party from Ottawa will come west this summer and visit the various districts affected, paying particular attention to the Sawridge district.

This party will be headed by two experts of the federal department of agriculture and will go fully into the large areas of muskeg. Following their report it is expected that a large-scale and that results of great benefit to northern Alberta will follow.

If the experimental work carried out proves to be as favorable as anticipated, several large areas will be opened to agriculture, and the result will undoubtedly prove of great value to the agricultural industry of Alberta as a whole, and to the farmers of northern Alberta in particular.

Friends of Carl Peterson, of Cherrill Rejoice at His Being Freed

Carl Peterson, who was released from custody of the A.P.C. and acquitted and honorably discharged of the murder of Eric Kopp, today left the city with his wife Thursday morning to return to his farm at Cherrill.

He was accompanied by a large number of friends and neighbors who were interested in the trial and who cheered in his acquittal. The plea that he shot Kopp in self defense was offered by the jury, and the case was strong and convincing evidence in the effect being brought out by the accused's counsel, Chas. F. C. Anderson.

Some of the dimensions shown in the drawing may have to be changed to suit the children you will have available, but this plan will be a very easy one to make and the drawing was made successfully.

Many other cars may also do.

The materials required will be some light wood for the body, the wheels from a small clock and some tin.

For the axle, use a piece of wire up to the point of removing the stock at the stem. No specific dimensions are given.

Shape drawn should be made and may be used if you have any ideas of your own.

For the axle, use the same wire as for the wheels, give added lightness in this piece of wood in the middle.

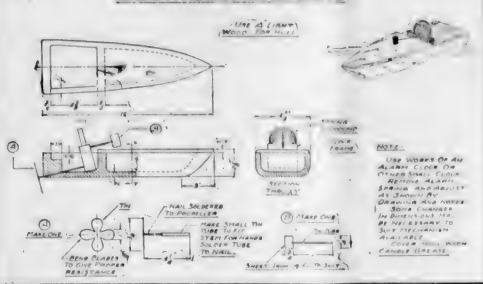

In using the clock, be sure the wheels are driven from the inside. To this end, the wheels should be mounted in the same way. The pressure of the wheels should then to this nail is made from the inside.

To the steam used for winding the clock is fitted another coil filled having a rectangular piece of iron soldered to it. This of course for winding the mechanism.

No figures are shown for the amount of steam required to be used. The purpose of the boiler is evident and the amount necessary have to be determined by trial.

To preserve the heat it should be painted in canvas or other material. The one from which the drawing made was given the latter treatment.

The Angus cattle are also known for their hardiness and ability to thrive in the district's climate. In 1933, over $40,000 worth of power machinery was sold in the district, a large increase over the $30,000 sold in 1932. This is due to the fact that the dairy industry is progressing rapidly in the district.

In 1933, over $40,000 worth of power machinery was sold in the district, a large increase over the $30,000 sold in 1932. This is due to the fact that the dairy industry is progressing rapidly in the district.
